Make-Believers to Take the Road

About twenty of Carmel's leading citizens are leaving soon for the winter. It's a pity they're going away. They are very nice people to have around. They don't kick about the taxes, nor object to the proposed new sewerage system, nor say nasty things about each other. Whenever other people see them they're working hard and minding their own business. When they get tired they lie down and sleep for a long while. They're hibernated now for a couple of months and they feel so rested and refreshed that they are about to start out on a tour of happiness.

The Kegg-Goldsmith marionettes are going to talk and sing and dance their way into the hearts of people all over California, just as they did in Carmel. They have visions of travel and adventure and they are pleading hard with the gods who pull the strings to take them to China and to Honolulu and to Italy, the home of their ancestors. The gods have decreed that just so long as these little folk can put the dreams and visions of seven into a body of seventy; just so long as they can make a little child's eyes bright with laughter; just so long as they can transport the tired business person into the land of make-believe—they can go on traveling and adventuring—they can stay in their land of happiness just so long as they, themselves, can create it.

The marionettes are getting used to strange gods these days. The old gods loved the little people and the land of make-believe, but, as the great puppet-master decreed that they should pull other strings on other bridges, they very regretfully handed over the strings to new gods, and Fanny Goldsmith and George and Mabel Kegg are going on creating new plays and new puppets, while Alberta Langley, the producer of the old show, will direct the new gods.

The balance of the company is recruited from all over. From Seattle comes Marvel Phillips, from San Francisco comes Bill or Jack or Jim—Newman—we don't know which it is—and Francis Johnston and our own Carmel girl, Grace Wickham, who's writ and acted plays here since she wore her curls down her back and was called "Gracie," is to play "Cinderella," herself.

They're all working hard and having a jolly time in the doing of it. All day long the old Arts and Crafts Hall is filled with laughter at the strange new characteristics which the puppets are manifesting. Cinderella sobs harder than ever and utterly collapses on the sofa when the wicked stepmother scolds her; "Wise Old Paw" has decided that he is getting too old to reach the top of the garden wall at one jump, so he catches it with his toe and hitches himself up gradually while he leers good-naturedly at the audience; and "Jolly Little Pan" is no longer gentle and submissive, accepting what the fates decree, but he has become stubborn and rebellious. The producer stamps her foot and calls him a "little fiend" and insists that he is like the god who pulls his strings. That may be good puppet psychology, but it's hard on Miss Phillips.

The puppets will be ready to show in about two weeks and Carmel will have the first chance to see them. The people here should extend their hearty greetings and give a royal send-off to the little people and their gods. We're all proud of them, for it is to go forth to the world known as a Carmel show.

Two Fire Alarms in One Day

Last Sunday, for the first time since its organization, the Carmel Fire Department was called out twice in one day. The first alarm, in the morning, was for a small fire in the rear of one of the Ocean avenue stores. More serious was the fire between eleven and twelve at night, when the former Cooke house in the south end of the city caught fire from a defective flue. There was no great damage.

Who Will Be the Next Ship Captain to Visit Carmel?

One would not think Carmel a place where he would be likely to meet old ship captains, but L. S. Slevin has "discovered" two captains and two captains' wives during the past few years. There hang, in his store, several photographs of old ships and ships' figureheads, which are but a few of his large collection and these have attracted the persons mentioned.

These vessels are the genuine old-timers, built about fifty years ago.

The last "discovery" occurred about a month ago, when a lady inquired, "What old whaler is that?" pointing to a picture on the wall. Mr. Slevin was somewhat surprised that it was recognized in such an exact manner, but replied that it was the bark "California" of New Bedford, built in 1840. It developed that he was talking to Mrs. M. Foley, wife of Capt. Foley, formerly of the bark Gay Head of New Bedford. She had spent ten years on that vessel and also knew the bark California well. The California was built in the days [illegible] ing captain once said, "A New Bedford-built ship is never too old to go to sea," and this one lived up to her reputation, having pursued the leviathan for about seventy years. She was then discarded, not because of her age but on account of new methods of whaling coming into use.

The following are the four which were "discovered:"

Captain C. Howes of the bark Sonoma of Boston, built in 1868; Mrs. Politeo, wife of Captain Politeo, of the ship Spartan, built in 1874; Captain C. J. Bruguiere of the bark Ophir of Guayaquil, built in 1874; Mrs. M. Foley, wife of Captain Foley of the bark Gay Head of New Bedford, built in 1877.

Each party was presented with a photograph of his or her ship, which was very acceptable, as they were taken in the days when "kodaking" was not common and probably no other photographs of them exist. Of course, these ships sail the seas no more.

In addition to the above there should be mentioned a visit from H. W. Morse of Edgartown, Mass., a connoissuer of old ships' figure-heads.

Artist Ritschel Home From the South Seas

Speaking of his sixteen months' sojourn on the Island of Moraea, in the South Seas, artist William Ritschel, just returning, says: "It is enchanting. The natives have an indefinable charm—they are so unsophisticated. One does not feel that they are constantly endeavoring to get something from other persons. There is joy and contentment everywhere."

Mr. Ritschel has returned with many sketches upon which he is working, preparing for his 1925 exhibition in New York, after which he will return to his bamboo hut on "The Pearl of the Pacific," where he will paint and dream.

Work on Monterey Hotel Has Begun

It is expected that the new Romie Jacks hotel in Monterey will be ready for opening in about a year. Contracts have been signed and a great deal of material has already been purchased.

The location of the hotel is a beautiful hill site about a half mile from the Carmel-Monterey highway. It will have 200 rooms. Concrete will enter largely into the construction. A. H. Avery of Santa Barbara, who built the Hotel Samarkand, will have charge of the construction.

Hail the Hotel Monte Regio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Bechdolt have been spending all this week in San Francisco.

"Barn-yard Golf" Championship Won by Carmel Man

This city has landed another championship. D. E. Nixon of Iowa, Carmel representative in the tournament at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, brought home the bacon last Sunday night. He is now champion horseshoe pitcher of Northern California.

Such well-known "barnyard golfers" as "Pop" A. L. Lilly of Vallejo, City Auditor Tom Boyle of San Francisco and O. P. Johnson of Oakland went down before the marksmanship of our Nixon.

The bacon which Nixon brought home is in the shape of a silver cup presented by the Examiner.

Dr. J. E. Beck, Cameron Waite and Jack Ammerman accompanied Mr. Nixon to San Francisco.

There is talk of matching our champion with Governor F. W. Richardson, who claims to be state champion.

The other Carmel championship is held by Walter Kelsey, who has the tennis honor in this section.

Art Lectures at Hotel Del Monte

A series of art lectures, under the auspices of the Del Monte Art Gallery, will be given by Eugene Neuhaus, associate professor of art at the University of California.

For the past ten years Professor Neuhaus has been lecturing outside of his regular duties at the university under the university extension division and is well known as a painter, author and most able exponent of art, dealing with his subject from an intellectual viewpoint.

The series of six lectures will include the subject: (1) Origin of Art. (2) The Relation of Art to Nature. (3) Realism versus Idealism. (4) Modern Tendencies in Art. (5) What is Beautiful Form. The sixth subject has not yet been chosen.

The lectures will be held in the Del Monte Gallery and are being arranged for by Miss Josephine Blanch, director of gallery.

Memoiial Services for Attorney Known Here

Among the five Santa Clara county attorneys who have passed away during the past few months, for whom memorial services were held last week in San Jose, was James H. Campbell. City Attorney Argyll Campbell and Mrs. Irene Cator attended the ceremonies. Attorney Clarence C. Coolidge read resolutions eulogizing Mr. Campbell. The resolutions contained a long list of his achievements during his term of office as district attorney of Santa Clara County.

Carmel Valley Pears on Way to the East

Year by year the demand for Carmel Valley pears grows in the eastern market. This year will probably see the largest shipment ever made. The minimum shipment is estimated at thirty-five carloads and the maximum forty cars.

Already about ten carloads have been sent forward by H. B. Schulte of the Carmel Fruit Growers' Association, and shipments will continue at the rate of about six carloads a week.

The California Industrial Accident Commission has awarded damages of approximately $5,000 to Harvey M Pugh, aviator in the employ of the Lasky Corporation, who was injured at Pebble Beach last March while flying in an airplane owned by Williams Brothers. Attorney Argyll Campbell of this city was Pugh's attorney.

Today is Birthday of Strenuous One

All over this broad land today the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt is being celebrated. Of the many forms which these celebrations take perhaps the most interesting is the dedication of Roosevelt House in New York City.

This enduring memorial and museum of Americanism is the work of the Women's Memorial Roosevelt Association. A brief history of the work of the organization will be of interest.

Shortly after Colonel Roosevelt's death, January 6, 1919, the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association was formed for the purpose of raising a memorial which would be not only lasting but appropriate. The association has restored the house in which Theodore Roosevelt was born October 27, 1858. It has been made fireproof, and a space has been added for libraries and a museum to hold the Roosevelt collections, as well as for meeting rooms. The cornerstone of the memorial building was laid by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood on January 6, 1921. At a public rally that month Calvin Coolidge, then vice [illegible]

The three-story and basement brown stone front reproduces in exact detail the old residence in which the Roosevelts lived from 1854 until 1874. Additional space was obtained which permitted the erection of wing walls and a subordinated addition which set the building out from the surrounding business buildings of the block. There also was added a fourth story, not visible from the street, enclosing a little theater which can be used for motion pictures and lectures. Theodore Pope, the architect, had the co-operation of Colonel Roosevelt's sisters, Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, in planning the restoration of Roosevelt House.

Mrs. Leonard Wood is honorary president of the association, the active officers of which are: Mrs. John H. Hammond, president; Mrs. Charles A. Bryan, secretary; Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn, treasurer, and Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, Mrs. William Curtis Demorest, Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood, Mrs. James Russell Parsons and Mrs. Alexander Lambert, vice presidents.

New Hagemeyer Studio Will Be Shrine of Art

The main unit of the new studio of Johan Hagemeyer, pictorial and portrait photographer, is now being erected on his place at Mountain View and Ocean avenues.

The whole studio, of which the workshop is already erected, was designed by J. Francis Ward, San Francisco architect.

The building will follow the old English style, with high pitched roof, with French doors and windows. It will be an ideal photographic studio, fitted to the type of work in which Mr. Hagemeyer excels.

A beautiful garden will surround the entire structure Altogether it will be one of the show places of Carmel. The work will be completed about Thanksgiving

Young Man Drowned Sunday in Carmel Bay

Leslie Clark of Berkeley, son of Dr. C. J. Clark of Walnut Creek, was drowned in Carmel Bay last Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Miss Helen Eldridge were down for a week-end visit. Attempts to recover the body have so far proved unavailing. The Clarks were married only last June. They had planned to depart shortly for Shanghai, China, where Mr. Clark intended to go into business.

LEST WE FORGET

This is the day that those who loved Theodore Roosevelt while he lived, and those who cherish his memory, and those who recall his achievements, will remember that it is his birthday.

The foregoing is by way of calling attention to this utterance of his:

"I do not care if you had the most perfect laws that could be devised by the wit of man or the wit of angels, they would not amount to anything if the average man was not a pretty decent fellow; and I base my firm belief in the future of this country because I believe the average American is a pretty decent fellow. Nothing can take the place of the individual factor, of the average man's quality and character, his industry, his energy, his thrift, his decency, his determination to be a good man in his own home, a good neighbor, and a good citizen in his relations to the state. Of all men distrust most the man who tries to incite one set of Americans against another set of Americans."

WASHINGTON "POST" PRESCRIBES

If your liver is out of order, don't take calomel; take a new "ism." If your scheme of life gets twisted, don't take a new grip on yourself and set it right, but take an "ism" and remold the general scheme of things nearer to the heart's desire. If you are in error, don't take counsel with yourself, but take an "ism." If dissatisfied with political conditions, don't take action to remedy them, but take an "ism." If you are crossed with the power above, don't take yourself to task, but take [illegible] dissatisfaction. Yellow "isms" for cowardly weakness of thought. Somber "isms" for blue tendencies. "Isms" for this and "isms" for that—until the imagination of quacks offering them is exhausted or tributary purses of gullible victims have been emptied. So runs the "ism" fad. You may think that you are happy and contented and blessed. But don't believe it. The "ism" doctor knows better and can prove to you that you are unhappy and discontented and cursed—if you will but listen. If you must think, think as the "ism" exponent directs—or, better still, let him think for you and let your pocket hand act accordingly. Wanted—an antitoxin for "isms" that threaten to become epidemic.

Sunset School Will Add to Its Grounds

The Sunset School has sustained a great loss in the passing of F. G. Williams, whose term of three years on the board was almost completed. At the time of his illness the school board was completing arrangements for acquiring property in the block north of the present grounds.

At the present time most school boards find themselves faced with the problem of extending their holdings, and some are obliged to resort to condemnation suits to attain their ends. Everywhere in California there is a large annual increase in school population.

While the present grounds at the Sunset school are large, the time is not far distant when a part of them will have to be covered by new buildings, as an assembly hall and more classrooms are needs of the immediate future. With this in mind the trustees have arranged to acquire the Haneau property in the block adjoining the school across Ninth avenue to the north, and hope to obtain other lots in the near future.

It might not be amiss to remind the public that all of the improvements on the school property—including the new building, the new playground and the extensive repairs and alterations in the original building have been met without an increase in the tax rate. Also the school rate is no higher this year than last, and is still well under that of Pacific Grove and Monterey.

Astronomer James H. Worthington of this city was the speaker at the fortnightly luncheon of Monterey business men at the House of the Four Winds last Wednesday. He gave an interesting talk on the making of scientific projecting instruments and of the commercial and scientific value of the recent Carmel astronomical expedition at Lompoc to observe the eclipse.

Second Concert Series to Be Inaugurated Soon

A second series of concerts for the Monterey Peninsula will be held. They will be given in the recently completed auditorium of the Monterey high school. At present only two attractions are announced, but according to David Alberto, they will be the most important achievements of the coming season.

The initial attraction is the three Duncan dancers, who hold a leading place among terpsichorean artists. The Duncan sisters, adopted daughters of the great and temperamental Isadora, will have as pianist Max Rabinowitch, who appeared last season as accompanist with Chaliapin.

Another outstanding attraction is the young pianist, Ethel Leginska, whose bombastic performance has won her distinction as successor to Carreno. During the past season Leginska was proclaimed throughout the east as the sensation of the pianistic world.

Other concerts which will compose the second series will be announced at an early date.

Woman Journalist Here From South

Miss Maud Butler and Miss Mildred Roberts of Los Angeles spent the past week at the home of Mrs. Melle Brewer. The southern visitors were delighted with the natural charms of Carmel and were deeply impressed with the arts and crafts displayed at the various studios. Miss Butler was especially interested in the literary colony here, having been associated with an eastern newspaper for some years and a writer of feature stories. At present she is an active member of the Southern California Woman's Press club and secretary of the Los Angeles Council for Better Films.

Miss Roberts has just completed the four years' course of the American Institute of Banking—the only woman graduate this year from her home city. A recent article by Miss Roberts appears in The Coast Banker.

Miss Hallie B. Porter of Berkeley is occupying her sister's place, the Searby cottage.

A nine pound son to grace the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Johns arrived by wireless on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eleanor Mullnix, nee Hicks, is the mother of six and a half pound boy, born at Auburn day before yesterday.

Mrs. A. C. Thompson, recently from Scotland, is occuping the large Rigney cottage for a month. Her two daughters are with her.

'Tis said that Mrs. T. T. Grieves contemplates building a home at Pebble Beach. She and her daughter have left for their home in Menlo.

Mrs. Williams, wife of the late Rev. Francis G. Williams of All Saints is arranging her affairs here preparatory to going to Fresno, where she will make her home with her eldest son.

Miss Lillian Minette Lasky of the Casa Del Rey, Santa Cruz, was a visitor here Wednesday. She expressed herself as charmed by Carmel and its people.

Mrs. Josephine T. Loomis is leaving for Palo Alto this week, from whence she will go to San Francisco in a short time, not returning here until next March.

Interesting visitors in Carmel on Thursday afternoon, under the guidance of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce, were Robert Wilson Stevenson, cousin of R. L. S., and Lloyd Osborne Jr. Stevenson looks like the famous author, and Osborne is nearly as big a man as his father.

It is probable that the lower Carmel Hill road will be open to traffic today. Now, if the bad spots on the highway in the northern part of this city could be repaired the comfort and joy of motorists would be complete. With the county road repairers nearby this should not be long delayed.

Monterey to Have New T. & D. Theater

Announcement is made by Mark G. Keller, resident manager of the Monterey Theaters Company, operated by the T. & D. Jr. circuit, that our sister city is to have a big new theater. The property between the Monterey Grill and the Sparolini grocery is the site c[illegible]. It will be of particular interest to Carmelites to know that the deal for the sale of the lots—the property of Tomas Doud, the Elizabeth Martin Estate and W. G. Hudson—was handled by our own [illegible] Staud.

D. E. Nixon wins championship of northern California in horseshoe throwing contest in San Francisco.

Humane Officers Warn Carmel Dog Owners

Officers of the Humane Society wish to notify owners and lovers of dogs that there is an epidemic of distemper among the dogs of Carmel and the peninsula. Several dogs have already been put to death and many have been quarantined.

Owners of dogs can help stamp out the disease by keeping dogs at home (except on leash) and calling medical assistance on the least sign of trouble (cold, sore eyes, etc.) Ring up Capt. Jesse D. Derrick, Humane Society physician, Presidio exchange, and he will give the case prompt attention.

If you see a stray dog that looks sick call the Humane Society immediately. If everyone co operates with the society our friends, the dogs, will be saved much suffering.

In future the Carmel Humane Society will be unable to call for cats to be destroyed, except such as are sick or injured. They may be brought to Mr. Rogers, who will dispose of them for a small fee, or they may be taken to the boarding kennel in Carmel Woods

Local Boys' Club Interesting Visitor

The Carmel Boys' Club was visited at its last meeting by Haskell Warren, a charter member of the Boys' Club in 1913. He is now a scoutmaster in Oakland and has charge of a scout camp near that city. He is such an enthusiastic scout that he came down to see if he could start a troop in this town.

He told of the scout patrol of eight Carmel boys in 1913 and how they carried off the pennant at a summer camp of Monterey county boys, including troops from Salinas, Watsonville, King City, Monterey and other towns. He said it was a proud bunch of boys that marched through the streets of Carmel showing that pennant.

The local boys are all anxious to become scouts, but the great need is a leader. What young man will offer to take up this much-needed and useful work for the boys? Any applicant will receive all the help and instruction needed. Mr. Warren is the second member of the Boys' Club to take up scout work.

Another visitor was R. W. Horace Johnston, a guest for a few days of the ladies at Gray Gables, en route from St. Leonards-on-the-Sea, England, to Hongkong. He related some very interesting stories of his experiences as a British Y. M. C. A. worker in France and Belgium during the World War, and also gave an account of a sojourn in the Malay States and described the process of rubber making.

John Barleen gave a description of the parade of the American Legion, which he was fortunate enough to see on his recent trip to San Francisco. He also presented the club with two games.

There were twenty-one boys present and five regular attendants absent. No more boys can be accommodated at present, so new applicants will have to go on the waiting list. Mrs. H. W. Fenner very kindly supplied two fine cakes.

Afternoon Affair at Maude Arndt Home

Mrs. Maude Arndt gave a charming afternoon on Sunday last at her studio on Ocean avenue. Among the out of-town guests were Col. Tatum and wife of Monterey Presidio, and Miss Wahldforth, a recent graduate from Vassar, and Miss Bergstrom, daughter of the Swedish ambassador to Japan. Miss Wahldforth is leaving next week for England to finish her studies at oxford.

Annual Summons to Red Cross Banner On Armistice Day

America's great humanitarian effort in behalf of stricken Japan early in September gave the answer to the question, "What is there for the Red Cross to do in time of peace?" What the American Red Cross did at once when this crushing earthquake disaster came without warning showed that it was ready on the instant with country-wide team work to carry out quickly and effectively the request of the President to lead the national effort for the relief of the many thousands of sufferers. Preparedness to take the field when relief is needed is a charter duty of the Red Cross. Without a membership enrolled in every community in the land this readiness would be impossible. That is why your dollar membership is most important.

It is imperative that the structure of the American Red Cross be made up of millions of individual units. Opening Armistice Day, November 11, and closing with Thanksgiving Day, November 29, the Roll Call this year will penetrate to the ends of the earth, and to the ships sailing the seven seas. The 3,500 Red Cross Chapters in the United States will have their busy volunteers enrolling members during this period imbued with [illegible] recent revival of effort when the call came from Japan.

"Cymbeline" in New York

Julia Marlow and Edward Southern are again upon the boards. Their theatrical season is in full swing at the Jolson in New York. Miss Marlow chose as her opening vehicle, "Cymbeline," one of Shakespeare's dramas that are among those most rarely seen. In the hands of such an artist it must prove a splendid treat to the lovers of the Avon bard.

Julia Marlow's art is based upon the Jeffersonian technic, laid in by years of careful conscientious study under her old teacher Ada Dow, the most successful woman producer of the last four decades.

The Religion of the Male

It has been long since existent religion has known any such basic reconstruction, such revolutionary criticism—genuinely fresh and original—as is contained in a new book by Charlotte Perkins Gilman entitled "His Religion and Hers." The proposition is that all the religious ideas of the world today have been evolved under the domination of the male sex; that man-made religion has greatly neglected the here, now and earthly future of the human race, that the contribution of women has been ignored or neglected, and that this contribution is desperately needed by the world today. The need, the possibility and the predictable results of such a change in religion as the general acceptance of the woman's contribution are followed out by Mrs. Gilman not merely with ingenuity but with practicality and candor. "His Religion and Hers" is a sincere and a stimulating book.

Another Valuable Library

The Walter Sylvester Hertzog historical collection was recently presented to the Los Angeles Society, Sons of the Revolution. The collection includes rare volumes and manuscripts pertaining to early American history, including products of the Benjamin Franklin Press.

The collection, estimated to be worth half a million dollars, includes much valuable data concerning California's history and a rare supply of pioneer gold coins issued before this state was a part of the Union.

Professor Hertzog has spent a lifetime searching practically inaccessible and remote places, where valuable works might be found, devoting his search chiefly among the descendants of early settlers, who still remain on the homesteads of their pioneer ancestors.

As an authority and buyer for large libraries, Hertzog has been known in the haunts where buyers for the larger institutions assembled to bid on rare and valuable works offered for public sale.

Historians say the Hertzog collection is second only in importance to the Henry E. Huntington collection, admittedly the greatest historical library in the world. Students will derive benefit from the location of these two great collections on the coast, despite the fact that both are in Los Angeles.

A Carmelite Should Win This

A prize novel contest is announced by a combination made up of the Lasky Famous Players Corporation, Dodd, Mead & Co. and Pictorial Review. It is open to writers resident in the United States who have never before had a novel published in book form. The award is a cash payment of $13,000, plus book royalties, for the story best suited to the triple requirements of book, serial and motion picture adaptation. Manuscripts must be submitted before June 1, 1924, to Curtis Brown, Ltd., 116 West Thirty-ninth street, New York City, and a decision is to be reached by September 1, 1924. Stories not winning the prize will be considered for publication on the usual terms.

DeNeale Morgan Has Exhibit at Berkeley

There has been on view in the Berkeley Arts and Crafts Shop a fine group of paintings by M. DeNeale Morgan. The exhibition, which has attracted wide attention, comprises etchings, monotypes, tempera and oils. Mrs. Jennie V. Cannon, an artist herself, who conducts the art columns of the Berkeley Gazette, says of Mrs. Morgan and her work:

"She comes the nearest to having what one may call a clientele of any woman painter in the west. I would say that breadth and strength are her most marked qualities. Sometimes one feels a touch of the impatience in the filling of space."

Says Harry Noyes Pratt in the San Francisco Chronicle:

"I don't know how long it is since she last exhibited up this way. Whatever time it may be, it is far too long, for we need the sort of art which Miss Morgan gives. There's breadth of the salt wind, the keen crispness of the shore in every inch of it."

The exhibition will be on until the end of the month.

Stein Bloch Smart Clothes

Words Without Meaning—

For example—The word "Exclusive."

It means nothing unless backed by a product whose name means a whole lot. There are dozens of makes of men's clothing for which we prefer that some other store claim exclusive control in this city. But for Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes we are not only glad but proud to claim exclusive representation.

A variety of models—such as THE SAXON, in patterns that are "exclusive" in the sense that they appeal to the man with discriminating taste.
